DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-3,13,25 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kampf et al (6,073,457) in view of Lorentzen et al. Kampf et al discloses applicants' basic inventive concept, a refrigeration system which uses the air temperature (see column 2 lines 28-44) to control a variable speed fan which blows air over the heat accepting heat exchanger of the system, substantially as claimed with the exception of using the air flow control system in a transcritical refrigeration system which uses carbon dioxide as the refrigerant. Lorentzen et al shows carbon dioxide transcritical refrigeration systems to be old in the refrigeration art, with separator/receiver 16 seen as an accumulator since gas is stored to ensure a constant supply to the compressor. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicants' invention from the teaching of Lorentzen et al to use a transcritical system to provide efficient refrigerant with an environmentally safe refrigerant while still providing efficiency improvements derived from controlling the air over the heat accepting heat exchanger of Kampf et al.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 8-12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 6 and 7 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3,13,25 and 26 are have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Kampf et al in column 6 describes outside temperature sensor 50 and in lines 36-40 of the same column describes how the evaporator blower is controlled by the controller using the inputs including the outside air temperature.
